National Guard To Display Radar

On Saturday of this week the local unit of the National Guard will display a radar unit, together with an anti-aircraft gun director, height finder, and associated equipment. A man will be at the instrument to explain how one of World War II's famous instruments operates.

The equipment will be on the west side of the courthouse and will be part of the National Guard's drive for recruits. The equipment has just been assigned to the 104 Coast Artillery, Anti-aircraft Battalion, with headquarters here.

Lieutenant Colonel Henry Ellis, commanding officer of the unit, states that members of the National Guard here are making plans to attend the summer camp, expected to be held at Camp Stewart during the middle of July.

He stated that Lieutenant Alex Wright and Major Ben Collins are conducting classes in master gunnery and that openings are available for men interested in a rating. Mechanical and topographical drawing, plain and spherical trigonometry are being taught.

Colonel Ellis says the unit here will be visited by a federal inspector on March 23 and 24, who will inspect the armory, the equipment and facilities of the battalion.

Information regarding enlisting in the National Guard may be obtained from Colonel Ellis.

For some time the Bulloch County Health Department has been trying to arrange for a county-wide survey to discover every case of hidden or non-symptomatic tuberculosis and syphilis.

This week Dr. W. D. Lunquist, Commissioner of Health for Bulloch County, made a statement explaining the situation governing the survey. He says:

"The Health Department has been trying to arrange for a county-wide survey for the purpose of discovering every case of hidden or non-symptomatic tuberculosis and syphilis.

"Most of you have heard of the mass testing of people in Savannah, Augusta, Macon, and Columbus about two years ago. Thousands upon thousands of persons have submitted to chest X-rays and to blood tests. The results have been eye-opening, because hundreds of new cases of tuberculosis and syphilis have been discovered. As a result, we have started some type of treatment. It is the desire of this health department and of the people of this county to conduct a similar survey. We want to wipe out these diseases and be as healthy as any other community. This we can do at a small cost of about 10 cents per person.

Bethlehem Will Ask for Sunshine

Members of the Bethlehem Primitive Baptist Church will meet this morning at 11 o'clock to pray for cessation of the rains and voice their pleas for sunshine. Elder P. H. Byrd will conduct the services.

Members of the county are invited to join the members of the Bethlehem church in this prayer service.

Continued rains in this section have made it difficult for farmers to plan their planting and the operation of their farms.

In addition to asking for sunshine, the services will include pleas for peace among nations of the world.

This is for every day in the week except Wednesday afternoons and Sundays. He added that golf lessons will be provided free of charge by "Red" Roberts, club professional, every other Saturday morning, beginning this Saturday.

Work continues progressing on the new club house. Furniture for the club rooms and grill has been ordered, as well as equipment for the grill and kitchen. No definite opening date has yet been set.

Ushering in the Easter and Spring season will be the fashion show presented by the Beta Sigma Phi sorority. Showing will be held at the Woman's Club Thursday, March 25, at 8 p. m. Proceeds will be donated to the Statesboro recreational program.

Other officers elected are Clarence Brack, senior vice-commander; J. B. Williams, junior vice-commander; Francis Trappell, quartermaster; A. S. Dodd, Jr., judge advocate; Claude Clark, trustee; and Harrison Olliff, chaplain.

Chinchillas, Shine A Fine Business
Chinchillas (those little twenty thousand dollar fur coat animals) and moonshine sound like a money-making combination.

And it must have been, until State Revenue officers and Bulloch county police broke it up. It was last week that State Revenue officers C. L. Strickland and James Warren and County Policemen Edgar Hart and M. E. Sowell found a modern 100-gallon capacity moonshine still on the chinchilla farm belonging to Grady Lewis near Stilson.

Along with the 100-gallon still, the officers gathered up 700 gallons of beer and 60 gallons of whiskey.

Near the still, which was in operation at the time of capture, the officers found a large hole in the ground which indicated that at one time and underground still must have been operated.

Mr. Lewis has posted bond after being arrested in connection with the operation of the still. His brother, Ralph Lewis, was found with him at the still by the officers.

to play with Statesboro, but whose contracts have not been returned, are: Nichola Galante of Middleboro, Mass., 20-year-old outfielder who weighs 190 pounds; Joe Kratzer, of Middleburg, Pa., who caught for Savannah, and his 328 (over six feet tall and weighing 190 pounds); and Charlie Thompson, of Chattanooga, Tenn., an outfielder, who comes highly recommended.

Statesboro plays Swainsboro in the opening game on May 13.

Bankers to Meet Here Monday PM

Bankers of this section of Georgia will meet here at the Norris Hotel Monday evening, March 15, to discuss the anti-inflation program of the American Bankers Association, with the banks here as hosts.

Mr. Wallace G. Cobb, executive vice president of the Bulloch County Bank, is chairman of Zone G, which takes in the banks of this section of Georgia, states that bankers of the nation realize that the banks have a part to play in combating the forces of inflation. He said, "The banks here are cooperating 100 per cent with the program and are not doing anything to encourage inflationary pressures."

He points out that it is practically impossible to lay down a set of rules which would determine whether or not a particular loan in any given section of the country is inflationary.

He did suggest that the proper use of bank credit must be impressed upon both the banker and the borrower.

"There are two things we, as bankers, cannot afford to do," he said. "One is to lay ourselves open to the charge that we have been substantial contributors to the present inflationary situation or to having been the spark which has finally brought about an inflationary explosion, and the other is to fail to meet any readjustment—recession, or depression in the same sound condition they are today."

Mr. C. B. McAllister, president of the Georgia Bankers Association, is going to Washington next week to attend a conference of bankers to study the problems of inflation.

Members of the Statesboro Lions Club, on Tuesday of this week, were given a vivid word picture of what history might have been had General Longstreet's forces arrived on time at the Battle of Gettysburg in the War Between the States back in 1863.

Mr. Alex Lawrence, president of the Georgia Historical Society, and member of the bar of Savannah, was the guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Lions Club Tuesday.

Mr. Lawrence, in a clever satire, visualized an entirely different world, as an entirely different world, as it might have been had the Confederate Armies won the war back in '63. Every worker in the East was promised "forty spindles and a loom".... Richmond Virginia was pictured as the Capital of the U. S., to which the eyes of the world turned for guidance. Detroit was satirized as the "Atlanta of the North".... and "peace reigned over the world...."

Fire Alarm Corner
PERIOD OF FEB. 25-MARCH 8

The Statesboro fire department turned out twice for the two-week period. One a practice and the other an auto fire.

During the same period last year, they turned out three times: (1) for a fire from a defective chimney, (2) a grass fire, and (3) a practice.

Logan Hagan, fire chief, says that as soon as the weather permits, the fire department will burn off patches of grass.

Full Jail, No Cook...Empty Jail, Cook There to Work

At noon yesterday the Bulloch county jail was empty. It has been empty since Monday morning of this week. And, according to Sheriff Stothard Deal, this is the first time since he has been serving as sheriff that they have had no prisoners there.

And "Miss Pearl" says it's great. "But it's a funny thing," she says. "For five weeks I didn't have a cook and there were ten or more prisoners in the jail to feed. And I worked like a Trojan. And guess what? That's right—my cook came back Monday, and see what happens—not a soul to feed in our jail. It's like a vacation."

"We almost had one Tuesday night, though," volunteered James Rushing, deputy. "We brought a man in from Savannah and when he got up to the door of the courthouse he gave bond."

Are They Privileged Characters?

We know of a newspaper editor who boasts of "minding his own business"—of never "meddling" in community affairs—of just playing along down the middle of the road.

We can't be like him. We, in addition to being the editor of a community newspaper, are just like you, and you, and you.

And like you, and you, and you, we ask questions and question some of the things we see happening. And, like you, and you, and you, wonder why some things rock along as they do.

And we don't mind our own business.

And call it meddling if you wish.

And you can't say we play along down the middle of the road.

And, so, here is one of the things that is bothering us this week—

Are the bread trucks and bottled drink trucks and their drivers privileged vehicles and characters?

If not, then why is it that every day they ignore and abuse the traffic control ordinance which requires vehicles to be parked by their drivers in prescribed areas, the parking time to be paid for?

To put it plainer—

Why are the bread trucks and bottled drink trucks allowed to park without depositing a coin in the parking meter?

You and I do.

If we park for only one minute we are expected to deposit the minimum coin—a penny—for the minimum twelve minutes.

They're Still At It!

ONE HUNDRED YEARS AGO—1848—the women folk of America got together and decided that "men and women are created equal", but until that date they had not been enjoying all the benefits of that right.

So, led by Elizabeth Cady Stanton and Lucretia Mott, the ladies met at Seneca Falls, N. Y., and began their fight for women's rights.

But their fight got off to a bad start—for it was at this first meeting that they had to call in a man. They didn't know how to run their meeting so it was a man who presided at that meeting.

He must have done a good job, for in the century that followed women have won nearly every battle in which they flew their women's rights banner. Freedom of the office, of the shop, the platform, the pulpit, and the franchise are all theirs.

And now comes the League of Women Voters of Bulloch County and of Georgia with a campaign for honest politics by informing and urging citizens to greater government participation in 1948.

And we find ourselves on their side—heart and soul.

Alerted by friction between the political parties

Dont Try It Again!

RECENTLY, we rode the Nancy Hanks to Atlanta. Part of the trip we rode in the cab with the engineer.

At a crossing between Millen and Wadley we saw an automobile approaching the crossing and from the cab of the engine it looked as though the driver of that car was going to try to make the crossing. We tensed up, feeling that we were going to crash.

The engineer told that every time he saw an auto approach a crossing like this he had heart trouble. "I never know if the driver is going to try to make it, or if he is going to stop."

And now comes a letter written by a fireman who works for the Union Pacific Railroad, which speaks for every fireman and engineer in the country.

The letter from Chester E. Beltz was published in the Omaha World-Herald. Mr. Beltz is interested in safety, partly as the result of the safety training which he received from the railroad. Here, in part, is his letter, addressed to the unknown driver of a car which was almost struck by a train:

"I don't know who you are, but I do know you were scared to death when you drove your car directly in front of a speeding passenger train. It

If we must, then why must they not?

We admit that it's easier to deliver bread from a truck parked at an angle at the curb where there is a parking space controlled by a parking meter.

Well, it would be easier for you and us to park our car at an angle at the curb where there is a parking space controlled by a parking meter and run in and buy a loaf of that bread delivered by the driver of the bread truck.

One driver of a bottled drink truck has the habit of parking his truck at the corner of West Main and Walnut Street. He doesn't just park it at the corner. He parks his truck so the rear of the body sticks out into the street, blocks the sidewalk crossing, and the engine is along a yellow curb sidewalk. He parks it there while he makes his deliveries.

It's easier that way—and he doesn't have to put pennies and nickels in the parking meter.

But it's rough on pedestrians who want to cross the street, and for drivers who want to make a turn at that corner.

And it's not entirely the policeman's fault. The two who are on duty can't be at every corner and every parking meter all the time—but the drivers of bread trucks and drink trucks could be made to respect our traffic control ordinances.

We know a lot of citizen-drivers who have been made to respect it—and these truck drivers can be instructed in the way of respecting it.

Or, are they privileged characters?

The Almanac Says the Weather This Week On . . .

TODAY, Thursday, March 11, will be frosty. Fishing poor.
FRIDAY, March 12, will be fair. Fishing little better.
SATURDAY, March 13, will be pleasant. Fishing getting better.
SUNDAY, March 14, will be pleasant. No fishing today.

But Don't Blame Us If the Almanac Is Wrong

THIS WEEK'S VERSE

Now you want and burdens leaving

To His care who cares for all

Leave us fearing, cease us grieving

At His touch our burdens fail

So you want to write your congressman

Or you sit down and begin:

"Dear Congressman:"

Or "Dear Mr. Preston:"

Or "Dear Prince:"

You've got a crow to pick.

Or you wish to commend him on something he's done that you like.

Or you wish to just let him know what's going on back home.

Or maybe you are one of those rare persons who want to keep him informed on the thinking of those who have no personal axes to grind, but desire only what they believe best for the general welfare.

Regardless of what you have on your mind, when you write your congressman here is what he likes, according to a member of Congress.

WHAT HE LIKES

1. He likes to hear opinions from home and wants to be kept informed of conditions in the district. Base your letter on your own pertinent experiences and observations.

2. If you are writing about a specific bill, describe it by number or its popular name. Congressman Preston has thousands of bills before him in the course of a year and cannot always take time to figure out to which one you are referring.

3. He likes intelligent, well-thought-out letters which present a definite position, even if he does not agree with it.

4. Even more important and valuable to him is a concise statement about the REASONS for your position—particularly if you are writing about a field in which you have specialized knowledge.

5. He has to vote on many matters with which he has had little or no first-hand experience. Some of the most valuable help he gets in making up his mind comes from facts presented in letters from persons who really know what they are talking about.

6. Short letters are almost always the best. Congressman Preston receives many, many letters each day, and a long one may get so prompt a reading as a brief statement.

7. Letters should be timed to arrive while the issue is "alive."

Prince is a member of several important committees and would appreciate having your views while the issue is before him for study and action.

8. Prince, like all of us, likes to know when he has done something of which you approve. He is quite as human as we.

THINGS YOUR CONGRESSMAN DOES NOT LIKE

1. He does not like letters that merely "demand" or "insist" that he vote for or against a certain bill; or that tell him WHAT you want him to vote for but not

WHY. He has no way of knowing whether your reasons are good or bad, and he is not greatly influenced.

NEW PACKING PLANT STARTS OPERATIONS AT VIDALIA

VIDALIA, Ga., March 6.—One of the most important industrial plants of this section opened at Vidalia this week when the Allen Packing Co. went on a full-time schedule at their newly built and equipped plant in the northeast-ern part of the city.

The business is owned and operated by Herbert F. Allen Jr. L. R. Moss is plant superintendent. Mr. Allen said that he had in-vested $75,000 in building and machinery. The plant has 10,000 square feet of concrete floor space in use. The plant will take care of a kill of 500 hogs and 40 cattle per day. The sausage plant can turn out 35,000 to 40,000 pounds of sausage, wieners, bologna and other types of sausage in a 10-hour day.

A freezing room is provided for use in processing beef for butchers and silent cutters, mixers, grinders and linker machines are in use.

Mr. Moss said that custom butchering would be given attention one day a week and that a staff of 25 experts would be needed to man the machinery.

Mr. Allen said that regular sales and delivery routes would be run to cover a 100-mile radius around Vidalia.

The Allen packages will be branded "High Grade" and "Polo" it was learned. All products will be inspected constantly.

Buyers for the plant will be stationed at the various livestock auctions of this section to select and buy meat animals.

Can you spare a dime or dollar for a worthy cause?

To help a child who's handicapped and give his parents hopes?

To supply the docs and treatment, the encouragement and care

To make their crippled legs as strong as an antelope's?

Let's supply the money needed to give these types a future:

The chance to dance and run and bowl—whatever it is worth.

To let a boisterous youngster romp and play the livelong day.

'Cause isn't a healthy, happy child the sweetest thing on earth?

AND BESIDES the requests coming from Aldmore, we also have the Red Cross campaign coming up this month—and I believe Uncle Sam will be searching for donors about the 15th, too.

SPEAKING OF THE 15TH, I read somewhere that the only thing the United States has seen of the dove of peace is the BILL. Too bad it's true.

T. C.'S PRESIDENT has been in the news lately. Morris Mc-

Lemore, former Statesboro boy, wrote in the Sunday Journal:

"The recent appointment of Dr. Ward as assistant chancellor of the University System of Georgia came as a shock to me . . . It's the first time I ever felt like addressing an educator of such high station, and it is even more disconcerting to realize that I can speak to an assistant chancellor about anything—by his first name."

And the George-Anne, T. C.'s publication, called our attention to the fact that last Sunday night on the Methodist Hour, when Dr. Ward was speaking, technical difficulties kept the program fading in and out like an old light bulb on its last kilowatts, the announcer unwittingly said, "Due to conditions beyond our control, we will soon return you to the Methodist Revival Hour."

HAVE YOU NOTICED all the candy Easter eggs and fuzzy bunny rabbits in the ten cent stores? And can you remember when eggs were 10 cents a dozen and you could boil and color 60 cheap—than you can fix 12 now?

KEEMIT CARR says he only eats 20 days out of the month. Around the 25th, he starts grocery list going to be and cuts down on his consumption, and after he gets the bill on the 1st, it shocks him so he loses his appetite completely for another five days.

STATISTICS SHOW that most people in the U. S. and Canada have two or more colds a year—each lasting about two weeks.

Victor H. Lindlar, on WJWS at 12:15, told us the other day that elephants are very susceptible to colds and that owners who can afford it take the animals South for the winter. Guess we can't complain too much—an elephant with a cold would be as bad as a giraffe with a sore throat.

JAMES BLAND DIES AT SYLVANIA HOME

James Bland, 44, former citizen of Brooklet, died Monday morning at his home in Sylvania, he had been ill for several months.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Audrey Lee Bland; two sons, Laval and Randy Bland, of Sylvania; two sisters, Mrs. James D. Alderman and Mrs. T. E. Daves, both of Brooklet; and a number of other relatives.

IF YOU'VE SEEN the Glub-Glub Duck in the window of the store next to the Soda Shop—the wooden duck that goes up and down to get a drink of water from a glass in front of him—you'll be interested to know that Donelle Thompson has one that has been dipping his bill with no help from the Thompson family. Perpetual motion, maybe?

WHETHER YOU LIVE to be a hundred years old or not, this is interesting. A man who celebrated his 100th birthday in Binghamton, New York, says he doesn't worry much about dying. He said, "I have friends in both places."

DON'T IT HELP you cut your telephone conversation short when you can hear a clock ticking away at the other end of the line? You can hear one beating out the time when you call the office at the Teachers College—and Mrs. Cliff Boyd has one near the mouthpiece of her phone, too. It's a good thing, and that reminds ME that I'd better be signing off too.

STATEMENT FROM EDITOR

We know that you will want to give our society editor "the works" this week. You whose party or personal was left out of the Herald are going to feel discriminated against and will want to get it out of your system. Please don't call our society editor. There just wasn't enough advertising to publish eight pages, and so much society to get in six—so there you are... Our phone number is 421—call us... We can take it!

Typical of South Georgia farmers is Henry Hodges, shown on the porch of his home off the West Side school road, just beyond Bethlehem Church, looking out over the wet and soggy fields that need to be tended that his crops for this year might be made. Mr. Hodges cultivates 55 acres of good land. Right now, he and Mrs. Hodges are half-sick with colds. He says that he had finished up about half of his work and "it looks like I'm going to have to do it all over again." Not more than one-third of the land in this section is broken. Normally, farmers would have been through and had their corn planted by the 15th, and cotton by the 25th of this month. (Cut Courtesy, The Atlanta Constitution.)
